IMPORTANT NOTICE — This is a fictional sample document generated for the Clara demo environment. Every name, number, figure, address and procedure in this document is invented. Nothing here is real insurance, legal, medical or engineering advice, and no real entity, product or service is described. The document exists so that demo assistants can retrieve and cite realistic structured content.

1. About This Guide

This is a SAMPLE document created for demonstration and training purposes only. Omen United Insurance is a fictional insurer, and every plan name, figure, limit and address in this guide is invented. The guide describes the fictional Omen life and health protection range at a summary level so that assistants in the Omen demo knowledge base can answer questions about how these plans work. It is not financial or medical advice, and no real coverage exists.

The Omen protection range comprises four plan families: term life insurance, which pays a lump sum on death during a fixed term; whole of life insurance, which covers you whenever death occurs; critical illness cover, which pays a lump sum on diagnosis of a listed condition; and income protection, which replaces a portion of earnings during long illness. A complementary health plan pays fixed cash benefits toward hospital treatment and everyday healthcare costs.

Choosing between the families depends on what you are protecting: a mortgage is best matched to decreasing term insurance; dependants' future costs suit level term or whole of life; loss of earnings through sickness suits income protection; and treatment costs suit the health plan. The sections below describe each family, the benefit tables, waiting periods, claim documentation, exclusions and the optional riders available.

2. Term Life Insurance

Term life insurance pays the sum assured if the life assured dies during the policy term. Level term insurance keeps the same sum assured throughout; decreasing term insurance reduces the sum assured each year on a schedule that mirrors a repayment mortgage balance. Premiums are guaranteed and fixed for the whole term at outset, and the policy has no cash value if you stop paying premiums or survive to the end of the term.

Terms from 5 to 40 years are available, ending no later than age 85. The minimum sum assured is £50,000 for level term plans. Joint life plans cover two lives and pay once, on the first death; after that claim the policy ends. Where both partners need independent cover, two single policies usually cost little more than one joint policy and pay out twice.

Age at entry	Level term 20 years	Decreasing term 25 years
30 next birthday	£8.40 monthly per £100,000	£6.10 monthly per £100,000
40 next birthday	£15.20 monthly per £100,000	£11.80 monthly per £100,000
50 next birthday	£36.70 monthly per £100,000	£29.40 monthly per £100,000

The sample figures above are fictional monthly premiums for a non-smoker in ordinary health; smokers pay roughly double, and hazardous occupations and pastimes attract loadings set at underwriting. Waiver of premium, described with the other riders in Section 13, keeps the policy in force if illness stops you working.

3. Whole of Life Insurance

Whole of life insurance pays the sum assured whenever the life assured dies, provided premiums are maintained to the review age. Because a claim is certain rather than possible, whole of life costs more than term insurance for the same sum assured. It is commonly used for funeral planning and to pass a defined sum to beneficiaries outside of an estate's liquid assets.

Omen whole of life plans are reviewable: at ages 70 and 85 the premium or the sum assured is reviewed against the plan's fictional investment performance. Balanced-of-life cover with guaranteed acceptance is available without medical questions between ages 50 and 80, with a first-two-years accident-only limitation — death by illness within the first 24 months returns premiums paid rather than the sum assured.

4. Critical Illness Cover

Critical illness cover pays the full sum assured on diagnosis of one of the listed conditions at a defined severity. Children's critical illness is included at no extra cost, paying 50 per cent of the adult sum assured or £25,000, whichever is lower, without reducing the adult cover. The plan pays once and then ends.

The Omen list of fictional covered conditions includes: heart attack of specified severity; stroke with persisting symptoms; cancers classified as invasive and staging onwards — non-invasive skin cancers and early-stage prostate cancers are covered at 25 per cent severity; multiple sclerosis with continuing symptoms; kidney failure requiring dialysis; major organ transplant; permanent total disability preventing any occupation; blindness; deafness; loss of limbs; paralysis; coma; third-degree burns over 20 per cent of body area; coronary artery bypass surgery; aorta graft surgery; benign brain tumour; motor neurone disease; Parkinson's disease; bacterial meningitis; Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease; encephalitis; head injury; intensive care benefit; and partial payment conditions including early-stage prostate cancer, ductal carcinoma in situ, and low-grade prostate cancers.

Survival periods apply: a claim is payable only if the life assured survives 14 days after diagnosis of a critical illness, and 28 days for total permanent disability claims. Claims are assessed against the severity definitions in this guide's schedule; diagnoses that meet the diagnostic threshold of the fictional medical literature but not the severity definition are deferred rather than declined, with reassessment at intervals offered by the claims team.

5. Income Protection

Income protection pays a monthly benefit replacing up to 60 per cent of gross earnings if illness or injury prevents you from doing your own occupation. Benefits begin after the deferred period you choose — 4, 8, 13, 26 or 52 weeks; shorter deferred periods cost more because claims start sooner. The benefit continues until you return to work, retire, or the policy term ends, with premiums waived while a claim is being paid.

Omen income protection uses an own-occupation definition for office-based workers and a suited-occupation definition for manual trades. The monthly benefit is level or escalates at 3 per cent per year in claim; deferred periods align with your employer's sick pay where applicable. Housepersons' cover pays a weekly benefit where illness prevents performing normal domestic tasks.

Premiums are guaranteed for the first five years and reviewable thereafter. The plan excludes deliberate self-injury and normal pregnancy, and a pre-existing conditions limitation described in Section 10 applies during the first 24 months. Rehabilitation support — graduated return-to-work programmes and workplace adjustments — is funded by the plan, because early supported return improves outcomes for everyone.

6. Omen Health Plan — Benefit Table

The Omen Health Plan is a cash-plan style product paying fixed contributions toward everyday healthcare. It is not private medical insurance: it does not fund treatment directly, but reimburses cash benefits up to annual maximums per benefit type. Cover is available for adults and children, with premiums guaranteed for the first two years of membership.

Benefit	Annual maximum	Waiting period
Inpatient hospital nights	£60 per night, up to 30 nights	None
Day surgery	£150 per treatment, up to £450	3 months
Outpatient consultant fees	£100 per visit, up to £800	3 months
Diagnostic imaging	£150 per scan, up to £450	3 months
Physiotherapy	£30 per session, up to £360	3 months
Dental	£150 per benefit year	3 months
Optical	£100 per benefit year	3 months
Consultations with a GP	£45 per call, up to £320	None

The benefit year runs with your membership year, not the calendar year, so benefits renew on the anniversary of joining. Claims are submitted through the Omen member portal with a photograph of the paid receipt; benefits are paid within 5 working days of a complete claim. Accumulative no-claims benefits increase the dental and optical maximums by £25 for each claim-free year, up to a ceiling of £250.

7. How Premiums Work

Premiums for all Omen protection plans are calculated from age, sex where the fictional regime permits its use, smoking status, health history, family history, occupation, and the cover chosen. Guaranteed premiums never change; reviewable premiums change at stated points. Waiver of premium adds roughly 3 to 5 per cent to cost; indexation, increasing the sum assured with inflation, adds a similar order and keeps the real value of cover stable over long terms.

Payment is monthly by direct debit or annually by card; annual payment attracts a 5 per cent discount. A 30-day grace period applies to every payment due: if a premium is missed, cover continues for 30 days while the payment is retried. If the premium remains unpaid after the grace period the policy lapses, and reinstatement terms appear in Section 14.

8. Waiting Periods

Waiting periods prevent claims for conditions that already exist or are already being investigated at the time cover starts. The health plan's waiting periods are shown in the benefit table in Section 6: hospital inpatient nights are payable immediately, while surgical and outpatient benefits begin after 3 months of continuous membership. Accidental injury claims are exempt from all waiting periods and are payable from day one.

For critical illness and income protection, the relevant limitation is the pre-existing condition exclusion described in Section 10 rather than a simple waiting period, together with the survival periods described in Section 4. For whole of life guaranteed acceptance plans, the first 24 months limit illness claims to a return of premiums. Life insurance term cover has no waiting period at all: once the policy is accepted and the first premium collected, the full sum assured is in force from day one.

9. Claim Documentation

Every claim begins with the Omen claims team sending the correct claim form for the plan claimed under. The documentation differs by plan, and the lists below describe the standard fictional requirements. Claims are acknowledged within 5 working days and decided within 10 working days of receiving complete documentation, or within the statutory industry timescales of the fictional regime, whichever is shorter.

Life insurance claim — the documents needed for a life insurance claim are: an original or certified copy of the death certificate; the policy document or policy schedule; the completed claimant's statement; proof of the claimant's identity and authority (grant of probate or letters of administration, or the trustee deed where the policy was written in trust); and, where death was accidental or the coroner was involved, the coroner's certificate. Additional medical evidence is requested only where death occurs within the first two policy years, to confirm answers given at application.

- Critical illness claim — consultant's letter confirming the diagnosis, histology or imaging reports for cancer claims, and the completed claim form; the attending physician's report is obtained directly by the claims team.
- Income protection claim — first fit note or hospital discharge summary, employer's sickness certificate where statutory pay applies, and P60 or payslips evidencing pre-claim earnings.
- Health plan claim — paid receipts and, for inpatient nights, the hospital admission and discharge summary.

Payment is made by transfer to the claimant's account. Where a policy was written in trust, payment follows the trustee's instruction; where no trust exists, payment forms part of the deceased's estate and follows the will or the fictional intestacy rules.

10. Exclusions

The exclusions below apply to the protection range. They are disclosed in full at application, and each application question must be answered accurately, because the fictional duty of disclosure allows the insurer to avoid the policy for non-disclosure of material facts.

- Suicide or attempted suicide within the first 12 months of a life or critical illness policy.
- Pre-existing conditions: conditions for which advice, treatment or investigation was received in the 24 months before the start date are excluded until 24 months of continuous cover have elapsed, after which they are covered.
- Self-inflicted injury; involvement in criminal acts; war and civil war.
- Hazardous pastimes declared and excluded by endorsement, such as competitive motorsport, mountaineering above 4,000 metres and deep diving below 40 metres.
- Alcohol or solvent abuse and the consequences of drug misuse other than drugs prescribed by a fictional registered practitioner.
- Aviation other than as a fare-paying passenger in a licensed aircraft.
- Cosmetic surgery that is not reconstructive following accident or cancer treatment.
- Normal pregnancy and childbirth for income protection, except where complications arise that meet the incapacity definition.

11. Beneficiaries and Writing a Policy in Trust

A life policy written in trust pays the sum assured directly to the beneficiaries named in the trust deed, outside the deceased's estate. This avoids fictional inheritance tax on the proceeds, avoids delays in probate, and ensures the money reaches the intended people even where the will says otherwise. Omen provides a simple trust form with every life and critical illness policy, and the claims team will help trustees complete a claim.

Where no trust exists, the proceeds are paid to the estate and distributed by the executors under the will. Assignments to lenders are honoured first where a mortgage protection policy has been assigned: the lender receives the outstanding balance and any excess goes to the estate. Changing beneficiaries after a divorce or family change requires a new trust deed; beneficiary nominations on non-trust policies are expressions of wish only.

12. Riders and Options

- Waiver of premium — after 26 weeks of incapacity the insurer pays your premiums until you return to work or the term ends, keeping cover in force precisely when money is tightest.
- Indexation — the sum assured and premiums rise each year with the fictional retail prices index, preventing the erosion of the real value of the sum assured.
- Accidental death benefit rider — pays an additional sum equal to the basic sum assured where death results from an accident, at a small additional premium.
- Children's critical illness — automatically included, paying up to £25,000 or 50 per cent of the sum assured for listed childhood conditions without reducing adult cover.
- Fracture cover — fixed cash payments for specified bone fractures, regardless of hospital admission.
- Guaranteed insurability — allows increasing the sum assured at marriage, childbirth, house purchase or salary increase without further medical underwriting, up to stated limits.

Riders are elected at outset and evidenced on the schedule; some can be added later without underwriting, others require it. The guaranteed insurability option is time-limited: each increase must be requested within 6 months of the qualifying event, and each event may be used once.

13. Lapse and Reinstatement

If premiums remain unpaid after the 30-day grace period, the policy lapses and cover ends at the point the grace period expired. Within 12 months of lapsing, a policy may be reinstated on payment of all overdue premiums and confirmation that no illness or injury affecting the risk has arisen in the interim; medical evidence may be requested. After 12 months a new application with fresh underwriting is the only route.

Term insurance has no cash-in value at any point: it is pure protection. Whole of life plans accumulated under the fictional balanced fund contain a surrender value after 24 months, payable on request. Surrender values are not equal to premiums paid, and surrender terminates cover; where a whole of life plan is no longer needed, converting to paid-up cover, if available, preserves a reduced sum assured without further premiums.

14. Tax Treatment (Fictional)

In the fictional regime described by this sample guide, life insurance proceeds paid on death are free of personal income tax, and policies written in trust can keep proceeds outside the taxable estate. Critical illness lump sums are likewise free of income tax. Income protection benefits are taxable as earnings in the hands of the recipient, which is why the benefit is limited to 60 per cent of gross earnings — the net effect approximates full net salary replacement. Health plan cash benefits are not taxable where they reimburse expenses actually incurred and evidenced.

Premiums are generally not deductible against fictional income tax for individuals. Where a policy is purchased by a fictional employer for an employee, the tax treatment differs and the plan documents should be read alongside the employer's arrangements. The fictional tax code may change; this guide describes the treatment as at its stated version date only.

15. Health and Wellness Membership

Every protection plan includes Omen Vitality membership, the fictional wellness programme. Vitality awards points for exercise recorded on connected devices, health screenings, and gym attendance, and points translate into premium reductions at renewal of up to 15 per cent for the most engaged members. A cinema ticket and monthly coffee benefit, with fictional partners, rewards healthy behaviour more frequently than the annual discount.

Wellness benefits are part of the product rather than an add-on and cannot be removed for a discount. They operate for the policyholder and spouse only, and require consent for the connected device data to be processed for the programme, separately from claims data. Participation is voluntary and refusal does not affect claim eligibility in any way.

16. Free-Look Period and Membership Cancellation

A 14-day free-look period applies to every new plan: if you return the documents within 14 days of receiving them, all premiums are refunded in full, provided no claim has been made. For the health plan, cancellation after the free-look period ends membership at the next month end; benefits already claimed are retained and premiums for the elapsed month are not refunded. For protection plans, mid-term cancellation returns no premium where cover has been in force, because pure protection is not a savings product.

Members moving abroad may continue health plan cover for 90 days of temporary residence; permanent emigration ends membership because the benefit network is domestic. Protection plans continue wherever you live, provided the direct debit remains payable in the plan's fictional currency.

17. Frequently Asked Questions

Q: What documents do I need for a life insurance claim?
A: An original or certified death certificate, the policy schedule, the completed claimant's statement, and proof of your authority — probate, letters of administration or the trust deed. Where death occurs within the first two years, we may also request medical records covering the application period.

Q: Does critical illness cover pay for early-stage cancer?
A: Early-stage and non-invasive cancers receive the partial payment of 25 per cent of the sum assured, up to the plan's partial payment ceiling, and the plan continues in force for the remaining sum assured.

Q: Can I cover my children?
A: Children's critical illness is included automatically in adult critical illness plans, paying up to £25,000 or 50 per cent of the sum assured. Child term assurance may be added for a small premium where the main plan is a life policy.

Q: What happens if I miss a premium?
A: You have a 30-day grace period during which cover continues. If the premium remains unpaid after that, the policy lapses. Within 12 months you can reinstate on payment of arrears, subject to health confirmation.

18. Glossary and Closing

Term	Meaning (fictional)
Sum assured	The lump sum payable on a valid claim.
Deferred period	The wait before income protection benefits begin.
Survival period	Days the life assured must survive after diagnosis for a claim to qualify.
Trust	A legal arrangement directing policy proceeds to chosen beneficiaries.
Grace period	30 days after a missed premium during which cover continues.
Pre-existing condition	Condition treated or investigated in the 24 months before start.
